

W. W. AGITATORS HELD FOR INCITING COOPER UNION RIOT

No Noise-Makers Who Broke
Meeting Contend They Were Present on Invitation.

Joseph O'Carroll and John Morris, two W. W. agitators who precipitated a disturbance at a meeting of the Cooper Union last night, were arraigned in Bronx Market Court to-day and held in $5,000 bail each. They are charged with inciting to riot.

Although there was no examination to-day, it was said in behalf of O'Carroll and Morris that they were Cooper Union by invitation and were not responsible for the disturbance that broke up the meeting. It is an admitted fact that O'Carroll had received permission from the trustees, under whose supervision the meeting was held, to deliver a speech, but somebody countermanded the privilege when the long-haired W. W. agitator appeared on the scene and started a harangue.

LONG PRISON TERMS FOLLOW MOCK HOLD-UP

Judge Gibbs in Bronx Punishes
Negroes Who Re-enact Saloon Robbery.

Charles Harris and John Thomas, negroes, to-day pleaded guilty before Judge Gibbs in the Bronx to pulling up a saloonkeeper. They are so indifferent to their fate that they described the holdup to the court, one of them playing the part of the robber and the other that of a victim.

"When Al stuck a gun in his eye," said Harris, as he levelled a look at Thomas, he says: "Gibbs, you is de boss of de place." Judge Gibbs sentenced Harris to not less than six years and Thomas to not less than four years and four months. Thomas was sentenced to not less than seven years and six months and not more than seventeen years and four months.

Overboard Harris's Body in Atlantic. The steamer New York of the American Line arrived to-day, almost two hours late, from Southampton. The ship's compartment almost continuously withered. On board was the body of Frederick Townsend Harris, who died in London about two years ago. Harris was one of the great financiers of the world. He was a member of the board of directors of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, and was also a member of the board of directors of the New York City and County.

AIR CURRENTS A QUESTION.

Round-the-World Airman Ask
About Newfoundland Coast.

Arnold Kruckman and Lowell Hardy, representing the round-the-world flight of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition called at the offices of the Red Cross Steamship Line this morning. They are in quest of information regarding air currents along the Newfoundland coast.

MOTHER! IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour. Look at the tongue, mother! If coated or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs." then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

The Success of the International Correspondence Schools

For the first time in the history of the world an educational institution has solved the problem of providing a thorough training for anyone, anywhere, in more than two hundred subjects. The methods created for this phenomenal enterprise were necessarily so new that they have been misunderstood sometimes by those who have not taken the trouble to look into them carefully. They have also aroused the suspicion and even animosity of such men as are always jealous of the success of others. But after twenty-two years of continuous and beneficial educational work, the International Correspondence Schools are no longer an experiment. They have proved themselves to be so valid and effective in disseminating instruction and providing training that many unscrupulous persons have tried to gain profit by similar enterprises which lacked either a legitimate financial basis or a sound educational foundation.

The newspapers of the country have recently given wide publicity to the efforts of a group of former employees of the International Correspondence Schools to discredit the financial management of the institution. A bill was introduced into the Massachusetts General Assembly purporting to regulate the activities of Correspondence Schools in that Commonwealth. The International Correspondence Schools have no objection to this measure nor to similar ones in other States. Fully conscious of doing a perfectly legitimate business, they are anxious that the public should be protected from bogus enterprises designed solely to market stock or furnish inferior instruction.

But at a public hearing upon the bill held in Boston, March 13th, it was obvious that the measure was introduced simply to give certain men an opportunity to discredit and depress the financial standing of the International Correspondence Schools. This was proved by the fact that those who urged the passage of the bill were former employees of the Schools who are at present engaged in trading in the securities of the International Correspondence Schools on their own account. Their purpose in attacking the institution is personal profit. We are, therefore, taking every possible precaution to protect those who are interested financially or educationally in the work of the International Correspondence Schools.

For this purpose we lay before the public the following facts: The International Correspondence Schools had their birth in a humanitarian impulse. The first course of instruction was in coal mining, designed to safeguard the lives of miners by educating mine foremen and superintendents. That course was quickly followed by others until now there are 275 courses of study.

During the past twenty-two years no fewer than 1,651,765 students have been enrolled in the United States and Canada, and enrollments are now being made at the rate of 100,000 a year.

The preparation of the textbooks written by the Schools for the use of students has cost more than $2,000,000. These texts are prepared solely for the work of instruction by correspondence and form the most up-to-date library of their kind in the world. Their value is attested by the fact that they have been purchased and are being used for classroom work or for reference purposes in 167 universities, colleges, institutes of technology and other well-known institutions of learning. The University of California has just discarded its textbooks dealing with the strength of materials. It has had I. C. S. instruction papers on that subject bound into volumes and has adopted them for the use of its students. The United States Navy Department is using 15,000 textbooks in the new naval shipboard schools, and this is about one-fifth of what will be required when these schools are in full operation.

The International Correspondence Schools are now the greatest teaching institution in the world. They have become a powerful factor in enhancing industrial efficiency. They have increased the earning power of hundreds of thousands of men and women, and, more than all, they have become a great social and moral influence by creating ambition, stimulating hope, and preaching self-reliance to their student body.

In Scranton, the International Correspondence Schools transact their business in buildings valued at $1,159,280.29, while their copyrights and plates are conservatively estimated as worth $1,864,404, after a liberal annual allowance has been made for depreciation.

Every effort is being made to keep the students at their studies in order that they may receive the full benefit of their courses. During the year 1913 no fewer than 805,079 individual letters were sent out to students, with no other purpose than to encourage and inspire them in their work. Besides these, 205,813 special letters were mailed to students dealing with particular difficulties encountered

The International Correspondence Schools are not interested in any enterprise that is not organically connected with their work of providing education for the people.

They are free from entanglements that might weaken or injure their educational efficiency, and they gladly court the inspection or investigation of all proper authorities. Their sole purpose is to give special training to all who cannot acquire it by any other means, and in doing this they place their costly plant and their valuable facilities at the disposal of the Government, the industrial corporation or the individual who desires to profit therefrom.
